Example of an exam template to be used with the `rexer` package. In this section we can provide indications about the development of the exam.

If defined, the variable `params$examinee` will contain the student's name. If not defined, it will contain the number of the generated exam instance (it will match the file name). This is its current value: 02

This template presents all the exercises as prepared by the package in the variable `params$all_exercises`.

Number of exercises: 5
